

Rally for Ryon Scholarship Lamb Show

The Livestock industry is known for its love of family, friends and great livestock. We compete in the ring yet rally together to help those in need. Now we have one of our youngest and smallest members needing our help. Ryon Jones, a 19 month old little girl, is suffering from Ewing's Sarcoma, a rare cancer. Ryon is the niece of Jaimie Jones, senior at Krum High School and longtime sheep showman and is the granddaughter of Tara and Steve Jones.

To support Ryon and her family in this fight, we are doing what we love best, showing our support by raising money through a scholarship sheep show.

That's right, great prizes, great sheep and most important, our great stockshow family helping one of our own.

Join us in the Rally for Ryon by sponsoring a scholarship, buckle or breeder's banner.

Rally for Ryon donations and entries will go directly to the family after costs are covered. We are seeking donations for every facet of the show. The location and judges expenses have already being donated. Total transparency of the show financial records will be available after the show. The non-profit 501c3, One Life's Journey, founded to help those struggling with cancer is working with the Rally for Ryon group in providing resources and personnel. If you have any questions and wish to contribute in any way, please contact Michele Lee 817-680-9023 or Paul Wolf 940-367-8783.
